APRIL 2021 EDITION

THE SIAM EXPERIENCE

As the only luxury resort to be located in the heart of Bangkok's rarely seen palace and historical district, you have the unique opportunity to explore with us this unknown side of one of the world's great cities.

From the hotel, you can access either by foot, The Siam Boat Cruise or a short Tuk-Tuk ride, to some of the Kingdom's finest temples, monuments, palaces, museums, restaurants, markets, galleries, shopping and architecture.

Slow travel is the norm here, where the journey is just as important as the destination. May we suggest that you:

- Don't overload your schedule; busy schedules can make you miss a new adventure
- Keep mornings and evenings for exploring the neighbourhood. The rest of the day is best spent in The Opium Spa, poolside or perhaps taking a Muay Thai lesson in our gym
- Stay out of taxis and avoid traffic; use The Siam Boat Cruise to access points of interest along the river. Our boat runs on a fixed schedule and can drop-off and pick-up anywhere along its route. Once you arrive at The Siam you never need to get into another car until you leave
- If you must use a car, The Siam has hotel limousines available 24 hours daily; 2 hours advance reservation is required.

Listed here are some of our favourite things to do at The Siam, the neighbourhood and around Bangkok.

Please enjoy.

Transportation Options

Hotel Car Volkswagen (5-seater) Van

THB500++ per hour (no minimum hire), reservation is required in advance.

Tuk Tuk

THB300 net per hour (to be paid directly to the driver), requires a 3-hour minimum hire.

Screening Room

Enjoy a classic or new release in the comfort of The Siam's Screening Room. Your butler can assist to make the arrangements, including dining at the silver screen.

Chon Thai Restaurant

Chon is Thai for spoon; our symbol of service, dining and sharing. At our award-winning restaurant, you will be served a truly local home-cooked meal overlooking the Chao Phraya River and its spectacular sunsets.

Set within a cluster of three century-old Thai teakwood houses which were once part of antique dealer and OSS agent Connie Mangksau's home, this hallowed venue entertained global glitterati the likes of Jackie Kennedy, John Rockefeller, Roger Moore, William Holden, Henry Ford, to name but a few.

Afternoon Tea at Café Cha

Too lazy to head out? Why not relax amongst The Siam's unique collection of art and antiques. Make way down to Café Cha for the perfect surroundings and enjoy our take on the classic British tradition.

Opium Spa & Wellbeing

Experience pure bliss in Thailand's award-winning Spa. Inspired by natural beauty, the Opium Spa links the discovery of one of the world's most fascinating cultural environments to the health and wellbeing of our guests.

We bring you exclusive Sodashi therapies and spa products that not only regenerate your skin, but also impart a profound sense of wellbeing to the spirit and mind. Unparalleled in performance and purity, Sodashi employs only the finest ethically-sourced essential oils and plant actives to visibly heal and nurture.

Steam & Sauna

Complimentary Steam & Sauna Services are available at Opium Spa & Wellbeing. Your butler can assist to make the arrangement.

Muay Thai Class

Over the past few years, Muay Thai (Thai kickboxing) has become one of the most popular forms of sport for wellness. The Siam has built the first luxury Thai Kickboxing gym complete with ring and professional trainers.

Sign up for a "trainer's" work out. This is truly an authentic Thai experience for the mind, body and

Wellness at The Siam

Energize your mind, body and spirit with our range of programs tailored to your specific needs by our in-house wellness trainer, Dr. Adrish Brahmadata.

Offering a refreshingly tranquil Bangkok setting, The Siam provides the perfect setting for a unique health and wellbeing centre focusing on Yoga, Ayurveda, Meditation and Reiki classes.

With sessions available for all skill levels, from beginner to advanced, classes will leave you with a renewed sense of spiritual health, help to improve your natural fitness, and impart new skills to continue your wellness journey at home.

About Dr. Adrish Brahmadata – With multiple degrees in Yoga and Ayurvedic medicine, Dr. Adrish is a globally renowned wellness expert, yogi and Ayurvedic doctor. In addition to being a Reiki practitioner and meditation teacher, he is also a qualified trainer for Yogic cooking, Marma massage, and Mantra Chanting & Kirtans. Dr. Adrish has conducted workshops, retreats and trainings across the world.

Yoga

Class highlights include Asana & Pranayama (to understand the postures of Hatha Yoga and the importance of breathing), Surya Namaskar (a morning ritual to energize your body), Asthanga Vinyasa (for advanced students looking for additional strength, stamina and flexibility), among many others.

Ayurveda

Dr. Adrish is available for individual consultations, beginning with diagnosis to determine the appropriate Ayurvedic treatments required, including medicine, Panchakarma (detox), diet and lifestyle changes.

Sak Yant – Traditional Thai Tattoos

The Siam has integrated an ancient Thai tradition with the opening of a specially consecrated space devoted to the inking of sacred tattoos.

Known as Sak Yan in Thai (and popularly spelt Sak Yant even though the “t” is always silent), the magical-religious designs in black ink can be traced back to two millennia ago.

Yant is a traditional form of tattooing magical ancient geometric and deity symbols with Buddhist prayers onto the body. These yants impart magical powers for luck, protection, charisma, fortune and other powers onto the wearer.

At our Sak Yant Studio, guests will be able to have tattoos done by one of the most talented Ajarns in Thailand, in the comfort and hygiene of The Siam's Opium Spa.

Reservation is required one day in advance.

The Siam Curio & Antiques Shop

Curio will do just as its name suggests: stoke your curiosity! Delightful and different from what you will find in a standard hotel lobby, this quaint little shop is filled with precious finds from hotel owner Krissada Sukosol's private warehouse inventory!

If you're looking for a gift with a difference and a Thai tale to tell, come take your pick, for yourself or someone you cherish.

Curio offers a wonderful assortment of unique items to choose from including: very portable vintage travel posters, charming jewellery, antique home decorative items, clothes, Elephant Polo gear and trinkets with Siamese significance.

See an antique that you like? Ask your butler to make an appointment for a special viewing.

AROUND THE NEIGHBOURHOOD

By boat, Tuk-Tuk and/ or by foot. A private guide is also available upon request. Please contact your Butler for more information.

Night Flower Market (Pak Klong Talad) & Old Town

Bangkok comes alive by night. Take our Siam Boat Cruise to Yodpiman Pier. The flower market is a feast for the senses, an experience unmatched anywhere else in the world.

Looking for a little pick me up? Pop in to Floral Cafe at Napasorn, for a great selection of homemade desserts.

At the end of the tour, you can arrange a Tuk-Tuk which will take you around the gilded radiance, solitude and beauty of the Grand Palace by night. From there, make your way to Banglampoo for a walk along Phra Athit Road and its many walking street tributaries - stroll down to the festival-like Khao San Road, the global epicentre of backpacker hedonism.

Shorts and t-shirt are probably best as it does get warm.

Klongs, Grand Palace, Emerald Buddha, Wat Arun, Wat Pho (Reclining Buddha)

Get an early start for this classic journey through the most famous of Bangkok's historic sites. Your guide and longtail boat can depart from The Siam Pier.

Marble Temple & lunch at Krua Apsorn

Depart from The Siam by Tuk-Tuk to the spectacular Marble Temple, Wat Benchamabophit.

From there walk through the royal neighbourhood back to The Siam for lunch at Chon or to the legendary Krua Apsorn restaurant.

Canal Tour

Starting at The Royal Barge Museum, take the trip up Klong Bangkok Noi and Bangkok Yai to experience the floating market in the heart of this bustling city. Visit Baan Silapin – Artists' House for cultural exploration before stopping by the world-famous Temple of Dawn. We recommend that you embark on this tour just post breakfast at about 9:30 hr. before it gets too warm.

Chinatown by Night

Starting from Ratchawongse Pier, adventure through the bright lights and frenetic buzz that is Bangkok's Chinatown. Awaken all senses with endless flavour and smell from an array of street stalls. Whether you are looking to satisfy your sweet tooth or enjoy a proper meal, Chinatown is sure to cater to your cravings.

Chinatown by Day

For those wanting to explore deeper into this fascinating and vibrant neighbourhood, take a walk through the tightly packed alleyways of Sampeng Market - Bangkok's famous wholesale market where you can find inexpensive clothing, costumes, textiles, jewellery and so much more.

EATING & DRINKING in the neighbourhood

Krua Apsorn Thai - lunch, The Siam Boat Cruise, Tuk-Tuk or walking (closed on Sunday)

This is the original homey, award-winning, royally patronised, everyday-Thai-food restaurant. Expect a clientele made up of fussy families and big-haired, middle-aged ladies, and a cuisine revolving around full-flavoured, largely seafood and vegetable-heavy central Thai dishes. As one of the most famous restaurants in Thailand, this is a must for every visitor to The Siam. At the very least, you must order: Green Curry Fish Balls, Stir-fried Crab Meat with Yellow Chili and String Beans, Crabmeat Omelette, Fried Giant River Prawns, and Larb Mushroom.

We recommend taking our boat cruise (5 minutes) to Wat Rachathiwat Pier and walking 5 minutes through a beautiful old Bangkok neighbourhood.

Kub Kao' Kub Pla Thai - lunch & dinner, walking

With a few outlets scattered around the city. Kub Kao' Kub Pla is the Thais' go-to-restaurant. The relaxed, yet, chic restaurant offers an abundance of wholesome "homemade" Thai dishes. Here are some of our favourite dishes; stir-fried cowslip creeper with egg, sun-dried baby shrimp and glass noodle, deep-fired turmeric marinated pork and Stir-fried chicken with cumin leaves.

5 minutes away by foot. Located at Market Place Dusit
- there is also a super market where you can find the essentials.

Street Food Thai, walking (closed on Monday)

Bangkok is famous for its world-renowned street food. The historical neighbourhood around The Siam is home to universities, medical schools, palaces, and all of the people that come with such institutions. These students, doctors, palace guards, teachers, nurses, and military come from all corners of the Kingdom and they need to eat.

To accommodate this diverse group and their equally diverse tastes, an army of street food vendors have come from all over the country, some as far as from Laos, to feed these people.

However, because we are in the palace district, there is a need to maintain the serenity and order of the neighbourhood so all of these street food chefs and their carts have been designated a single street that has become the ultimate hub for street food in the district.

That street just happens to be right in front of The Siam. It's a real treat to go for a walk in the morning to see sights, hear the sounds and experience the smells and tastes of cuisines from across the Kingdom.

EATING & DRINKING by the river

Bangkok's riverfront was once the domain of derelict shop houses and street-side noodle joints (still delicious). These days though, cutting-edge restaurants are swinging open their doors by the shores of the Chao Phraya River. Stay out of Bangkok's evening traffic and take The Siam Boat Cruise for an evening out.

Steve Café Thai, dinner

Don't let the name deceive you, Steve Café is a local restaurant with an amazing selection of Thai dishes. Best to arrive by boat from The Siam and organize a taxi or Tuk-Tuk with the hotel to return. Featuring stunning views of Rama IX bridge, this restaurant has local charm, a relaxed feel and great food. Best enjoyed from sunset through dinner; avoid lunch as the restaurant faces the western sun and can be rather hot.

Supanniga Eating Room Tha Tien Thai, dinner

"Supanniga" (Thonglor) is known for its casual chic location and reliable Thai food. But if there's one thing missing from that restaurant, it's the view. Now that we have Supanniga Eating Room, it naturally makes this the riverside Thai restaurant we have all been waiting for!

80/ 20 Dinner

After a complete revamp, 80/20 offers a refined, yet rustic experience. The "bad boy" of innovative cuisine recently received a 1 Michelin Star ranking on theirs everchanging seasonal tasting menus. 80/20 champions local Thai produce, serving modern Thai dishes that will blow your mind!

The Rooftop at Sala Rattanakosin Drinks, dinner

The laidback ambience is perfect for a pre-dinner drink and snack. Looking on to the Temple of Dawn, the view from Sala Rattanakosin is second-to-none! A proper restaurant is also available on the lower floor, but our butler can recommend restaurants nearby should you wish to explore the area a bit more. Be warned! There is no elevator but it's only 4 floors up - think of it as a little exercise to whet your appetite.

Tep Bar Drinks, dinner

Tep Bar joined Chinatown's new-wave bar scene some years back. This restored shop-house has plenty of raw appeal, with mood lighting and simple wooden tables. Here, you'll find potent cocktails mixed with Thai fruits, herbs and spices. There's also a good line of home-infused Ya Dong (Thai herbal whisky) as well as a kitchen specialising in Thai tapas. Enjoy your night with live traditional Thai music.

EATING & DRINKING ones we love

Sühring Yen Akat, approximately 50 minutes by car

Twins Thomas and Mathias Sühring offer the best of German fare inspired by family recipes, with the essence of Central European influences. The tasting menus in their “home” offers warm hospitality in a relaxed, yet elegant environment.

Sorn Sukhumvit 26, approximately 50 minutes by car

At Sorn, the ingredients, sourced daily from the 14 provinces in the region, combine with cooking techniques indigenous to Southern Thailand are rediscovered in colourful dishes that honour the bounty of this fertile land and its rich gastronomic history. They are impossible to book though.

Le Normandie Charoenkrung, approx. 40 minutes by car

Been in business since 1958, Le Normandie is Bangkok's original French fine dining restaurant. Think old-school glamour; gold fabrics, gold upholstered chairs, gold carpet and the chandeliers. The décor may be a little tacky but the dishes are absolutely divine.

Mezzaluna Charoenkrung, approx. 40 minutes by car

Situated on the 65th floor, Mezzaluna offers sky-high-breath-taking views. The creative and technically precise seven-course set menu is probably best describe as European delights meets Japanese precision with surprises.

Chef's Table Silom, 35 minutes by The Siam Boat + Tuk Tuk

Aiming to be Thailand's first 3 Michelin Star restaurant, Chef's Table at Le Bua offers an exquisite cuisine with the panorama view of Bangkok's skyline. Be ready to dress up and pay up as Chef Thierry lined your table with contemporary French menu, sprinkled with some European influences. Why not start your night at Pink Bar - located just across the hall.

Bo.lan Thonglor, approximately 60 minutes by car

Bo.lan got its name from Chef Duangporn's nickname and second half of Dylan's name. It is also a play on the Thai word for vintage. Bo.lan prides itself for working closely with local farmers and advocates the use of bio diversified produce. Beware... the trip to Bo.lan is quite a journey.

Le Du Silom, approximately 40 minutes by car

The name may sound French but "Le Du" is actually a Thai word (season). Headed by Chef Ton, the 4 or 6-course modern Thai tasting menu emphasises on centuries-old culinary culture and the best seasonal produce. We recommend that you dash next door to Namsah for a couple of drinks.

Paste Ratchadamri, approximately 40 minutes by car

Chef 'Bee' Bongkoch and husband, Jason Bailey spent years painstakingly studying the evolution of Thai cuisine, discovering century-old recipes and long-forgotten techniques in the process.

Saneh Jaan Witthayu, approximately 40 minutes by car

Traditional Thai fine dining done right. Located on Wireless Road's Glasshouse food complex, this elegantly designed, high-ceilinged dining hall is lined with photo of attractions around the country. Prices can be quite high but by no means extravagant, and the food lives up to expectations.

Jay Fai Mahachai, approximately 30 minutes by car

Led by a 70-year-old lady named Jay Fai, this shop-house restaurant was recently featured on Street Food (Netflix), and is one of Bangkok's street-food legend. Warning! The queue could be a long while but you can watch the energetic Jay Fai works her magic in her open kitchen.

Saawaan Suanphlu, approximately 50 minutes by car

Chef Aom won her 1st Michelin star within her first year of operation. The "elevated street food" caused plenty of buzz in the industry. Her 10-course multi-layered dishes are both delicious and beautiful. Starting at THB1,950++ per person they are the cheapest Michelin-star tasting menu in town!

#13

Nahm Sathorn, approximately 50 minutes by car

Nahm values the strong, fresh flavours of traditional Thai cuisine, and delivers surprising tastes and textures in dishes of all varieties, whether savoury or sweet. The kitchen is run by Chef Pim, a reputable Thai food blogger. They've switched up and only offer set menu.

#20

Canvas Thonglor, approximately 60 minutes by car

Locally sourced and seasonally sophistication of fine dining is the backbone of Canvas. The 6 or 9-course tasting menus is best enjoyed around the glistening kitchen bar. Try the wine pairing option to match the seriously bold and inventive flavours on the plate. Pop over to Sing Sing Theater for a fun night out.

Ginza Sushi Ichi Ratchadamri, approximately 35 minutes by car

This sushi restaurant belongs to a group that started in Tokyo with branches in Bangkok, Jakarta and Singapore. Sushi Ichi treats you to uncompromisingly authentic omakase-style sushi with fish flown in daily from Toyosu Market. Watch as the chefs in traditional outfits wield elegant knives and scrape fresh wasabi.

Gaggan Anand Phrom Phong, approximately 60 minutes by car

Gaggan 2.0! With the closing of Gaggan (2 Michelin Stars restaurant), Chef Gaggan got his new and independent restaurant up and running in just 60 days! Offering an all new 25-course seasonal tasting menu, the new joint will surely be back on any list before long. Be warned, his place is tucked away on Bangkok's busiest road, your journey may take up to 1.5 hours.

Nusara Tha Tien, 35 minutes by The Siam Boat + Tuk Tuk

The newest venture by chef Thitid 'Ton' of Le Du. Named after his grandmother, Nusara is a tribute to his culinary inspiration. The atmospheric dining room seats just 10 guests in an intimate setting that blends the glamour of a bygone era with a splash of modernity. The 12-course tasting menu is to-die-for!

Issaya Siamese Club Ngam Duplee, approximately 40 minutes by car

Chef Ian is one of Thailand's first international celebrity chefs. Issaya Siamese Club offers plenty of outstanding signature dishes but the Yum Hua Plee - banana blossom and palm heart salad - is not to be missed!

Lin-Fa Sri Ayutthaya, approximately 30 minutes by car

The Sukosol, our sister property, houses one of Bangkok's most beloved Chinese Restaurant. For nearly 3 decades, guests at Lin-Fa have enjoyed outstanding Chinese cuisine against a beautiful backdrop of museum-quality antiques and art. If you are a fan of all-you-can-eat dim sum be sure to opt in for the weekend luncheons!

Micheline Guide, Thailand

With the support of the Thai Tourism Authority, the guide showcases the best of Thailand's dining establishments from casual street food to fine-dining creations by renowned local & foreign celebrity chefs.

Asia's Best 50 Restaurants

Launched in 2013, the list is created by the Asia's 50 Best Restaurants Academy, an influential group of over 300 leaders in the restaurant industry across Asia, each selected for their expert opinion of Asia's restaurant scene.

BK Top Table

This is an independent ranking of Bangkok's 100 best restaurants, as voted by a panel of industry experts with zero interference from sponsors. Thirty serious foodies sit on the Top Tables panel each year - over half of are Thai.

NOTABLE ROOFTOP BAR... because everyone asks

Bangkok is known for her abundance of rooftop bars. Why not catch the glittering lights of Bangkok at some of our favourites?

The Speakeasy Rooftop Bar – Hotel Muse, Langsuan Drinks

The “secret” bar offers a view of Bangkok’s city skyline; being smacked in the city central’s hi-end residential lane you may just be able to peek into the life of a Bangkokian.

Moon Bar & Vertigo TOO – Banyan Tree Hotel, Sathorn Drinks

One of the most sought-after rooftops with an amazing view of Bangkok’s financial district. Vertigo TOO is a great alternative on a rainy day.

HI-SO – SO Sofitel, Sathorn Drinks

If you are looking for a park view rooftop, look no further. HI-SO bar overlooks the greenery of Bangkok’s Lumpini park – dubbed the “lungs of Bangkok”. Great place to people watch.

Sky Bar, Alfresco 64 & Pink Bar – Le Bua, Silom Drinks

Popularised by the notorious “The Hangover” film, Sky Bar is pretty much overcrowded at all times. That said, it does offer an amazing view of the Chao Phraya River. Maybe pop up for a quick look and dash down to Alfresco 64, a whisky bar with a view or Pink Bar, an elegant champagne bar for a more relaxing glamorous evening.

Mahanakhon Skywalk, Sathorn Drinks

Located at the top of King Power Mahanakhon Building, Mahanakhon SkyWalk is Thailand's highest observation deck at 314 meters. Offering 360° degree panoramic view from indoor and outdoor observation deck. Do not expect proper seating. Just grab a drink from the "canteen" bar and enjoy the view from the highest point in town. Be warned, the way out is a bit of a wild duty-free shopping maze.

THREESIXTY – Millennium Hilton, Charoen Nakorn Drinks

This may be just another hotel's rooftop bar but THREESIXTY does offer an amazing perspective of Bangkok as they are located on the "opposite side" of the river. It is also a great stop for pre/ post-dinner drinks if you are dining at Never Ending Summer. Probably the best rooftop with The Siam boat cruise access.

SHOPPING

River City Shopping Centre

River City is a four-story antique mall overlooking the Chao Phraya River. It specializes in antiques, collectibles and a good range of fashion and jewellery shops. A well-known landmark on the Chao Phraya riverbank, River City has been around since 1984. Many antique shop owners here are pioneers of the trade and can offer expert advice on their products, whether they're genuine antiques or modern reproductions.

- Beyond The Mask: Ask for Khun May, located on the 3rd floor. They have the best SE Asian collection of objets d'art.
- The Verandah and Beyond: Wood masks, lacquer, silver and stone jewellery, wood figures and Buddhist decorative items from Burma, Laos and Thailand (3rd floor).
- The Old Time Antiques: Imagine what the estate sales of old aristocratic Thai mansions would be like and this shop on the 4th floor is it. Ask for Khun Vichai and give yourself a few hours.

Be advised that it is illegal to remove any image of the Buddha from Thailand without a permit from the fine arts department.

We recommend not trying to export antique Buddha icons out of the country as it could be very difficult, expensive and time consuming.

Please note that a handful of shops are closed on Sundays

ICON SIAM

This new and fancy skyscraper is probably the best luxury shopping mall along the riverside. ICON SIAM is also home to the first Siam Takashimaya department store with selected goods from Japan. Be sure not to miss out on SOOK Siam, the outdoor indoor floating market come fully loaded with local artisan produce and products.

Thai Home Industries

On the street between The Oriental Hotel and OP Place is an old wooden warehouse. Dark and dusty and full of charm, this is Thai Home Industries. For the best in rustic cutlery, bowls and hand-made metal work, this is the place to go; shopping here is so much fun. The children of the owners are educated in California, so communication in English is a breeze.

ANTIQUE HUNT

Artisans at Silom Village Ratchada Road

Ask for the owner Khun Kae. One of the best collections of SE Asian antiques and objects to be found anywhere. Located in the middle of the ground floor on the left side, it looks like an old cluttered curio shop.

House of Chao Soi Decho between Silom & Surawong Roads

This is where some of The Siam's collection of furniture has come from. The butlers will be happy to arrange a private showing with the Madame of the House, Khun Chao.

CREATIVE SPACES

Warehouse 30 by The Siam Boat Cruise

The 4,000 sqm space of abandoned World War II Era Warehouses got some love from Jam Factory's owner, "starchitect" Duangrit Bunnag. Warehouse 30 is a web of stores, restaurants, art spaces as well as other creative endeavours.

The indoor market showcases everything from chairs to bags and accessories from local designers, and vintage WWII military products. F&B options include quality salads, sandwiches & burgers, soups, locally-sourced fruits, vegetables and superfoods.

Chatuchak Weekend Market (JJ Market)

Originally a flea market started in the 1950s by a former prime minister who wanted to put a flea market into every town in Thailand, Chatuchak, more affectionately known as JJ Market, is now the largest market in Thailand.

Only open on the weekends, with over 5000 stalls, selling everything from clothing to pets, antiques, plants, amulets, and plenty of food and drink. The market is now a highly touristy affair, hot, crowded, and no longer dirt cheap. Yet it is still a great place to people watch, find something you don't have to buy, and the latest addition of impromptu cafes for sipping a cappuccino or having a cold beer and watching the world go by make it worth an afternoon visit.

GALLERY

ATA Gallery by The Siam Boat Cruise

The name, ATTA, means "self" in Pali - an ancient Indian language that is also widely used in the Thai language. ATTA Gallery works to emphasize the meaning of the Gallery's name by promoting self-expression of artists as well as wearers alike.

ATA Gallery exhibits pieces of wearable art made by jewelry artists/ designers - both established and new talents, local and international.

Bangkok Art & Culture Centre

BACC visualizes itself as a center of cultural diversity for a sustainable social development. If you are around Jim Thompson House, MBK or Siam Paragon, do stop by. BACC's exhibitions are ever changing with established and up-and-coming artists.

TAILORING SERVICE

The Cotton House OP Place by The Siam Boat Cruise

Located at Oriental Place, this is the go-to tailor for replicating women's clothes of the finest quality. Take The Siam Boat to the Oriental Public Pier and walk 5 minutes to Oriental Place Shopping Centre, first floor on the left, and ask for Mrs Reed. Once you have your initial designs done, the tailor will be happy to come do your fittings at The Siam.

World Group Tailor OP Place by The Siam Boat Cruise

Since 1969, their philosophy has been to excel in the art of tailoring to its perfection. For more than 40 years, they have been serving world renowned royalties, statesmen, dignitaries as well as their valued long-time patrons who regard the art of dressing well as a vital part of modern living in style.

Located behind The Oriental Hotel, the shop is a quick boat trip from The Siam to the Oriental Public Pier.

NIGHTLIFE

Sing Sing Theatre

This bar-cum-club is one of Bangkok's most creative interior design concepts. Paying homage to far Eastern aesthetics, you can expect intricate wrought iron patterns, hundreds of lanterns hanging from the ceiling and plenty of dragon imagery to go with the 'Muses' (elegant girls in Chinese Qipao). There is a big push into concept parties at Sing Sing too, with themes like Underwater or Carnival being completely immersive experiences and a whole lot of fun.

Much like Maggie Choo, the crowd is a mix of upper-class Thais, expats, and tourist.

Iron Balls Gin Parlour

A gin lover must! The man behind this operation is the renowned bar designer and master distiller, Ashley Sutton – he designed the 2 bars mentioned earlier as well. They are probably best known for their classic Gentleman's Club look, dark wooden surfaces, velvet panels and leather armchairs.

Crimson Room

An Art Deco inspired cocktail den by the team behind Rabbit Hole and Liberation. The swanky, cabaret-style bar puts on live shows every Wednesday to Saturday, including jazz & blue bands, DJ sets as well as other musical and entertainment acts. The strategically positioned stadium-style seating on three different level, vaulted ceilings featuring huge chandeliers, plus the plush red velvet fabrics adds to the Gatsby-esque vibe.

Beware of scammers on the piers: The Siam staff will NEVER approach you on the pier to offer any services other than the complimentary boat cruise. Anyone that does this is not associated with The Siam. We recommend not engaging them and their services, and just continue on your way.
